

Whole Grain Flexibility for K-12 Menus

General Mills takes pride in its long-standing leadership in providing great tasting, whole grain-rich products. Our mission in the K-12 channel is to ensure every student is well-fed so they are ready to learn. For many of our nation's children, and especially those children at nutritional risk, the National School Lunch Program and School Breakfast Program often provide their most nutritious meal(s) of the day. We align with the Dietary Guidelines for Americans' recommendation to make half of your grains whole grain. Whole grains contain essential nutrients which help reduce the risk of heart disease, stroke, cancer, diabetes, and obesity. Unfortunately, 9 out of 10 Americans, including children, do not get the recommended servings of whole grain per day.

We at General Mills commit to advancing good nutrition with delicious, participation-driving products for K-12 schools. We will continue to provide a regulation-ready portfolio with solutions that fit the needs of every operation.
